

Did you know that from 23rd March 2005, drivers of vehicles over 3.5 tonnes gross vehicle weight will be subject to a new and complex set of rules and regulations as defined by the Road Transport Directive?

For example, any worker who drives more than 10 days in a reference period of 17 weeks will be affected, even when they are working in a warehouse or on other non-driver related activities.

We can help you overcome the effect of these regulations. Our transport operations have been developed over a number of years. They are structured in such a way that we can carry out an effective distribution service, from a single overnight pallet to a full load, throughout the UK, within the constraints of the new regulations.

If you would like some advice, or want to know how we can help you, please call me on my direct line: 02380 648801. You need to take action now - there is not much time left.
